From Captivity to Freedom
Themes in Ancient and Modern Slavery

edited by

Constantina Katsari and Enrico Dal Lago
FROM CAPTIVITY TO FREEDOM: THEMES IN ANCIENT AND MODERN SLAVERY

Constantina Katsari
Enrico Dal Lago
Table of Contents:

Acknowledgements

vii

The Authors

ix

Diachronic Slavery

1) World Slavery and Comparative Slavery: Diachronic Approaches
   Introduction by Constantina Katsari and Enrico Dal Lago

Captives and Slaves

2) Enslavement and Death: the Third Macedonian War
   Constantina Katsari

3) Enslavement of Native Americans during Queen Anne’s War
   Rebecca M. Seaman

Female Slaves

4) On the Moregine ancilla or Slavery and Prostitution at Pompei
   Giovanni Salmeri

5) From Slaves to Sergipanos: Gender, Labour and Family in America’s Cacao Area, 1870–1920
   Mary Ann Mahony

Slave Rebellions

6) Rewriting Slave Rebellions
   Theresa Urbainczyk

7) Denying the Evidence: Slave Rebelliousness and the Denmark Vesey Debate
   Douglas R. Egerton

Freedom after Slavery

8) ‘Independent’ Slaves in Classical Athens and the Ideology of Slavery
   Nick Fisher

9) The Abolition of Slavery and Plans for Freedom in Late Nineteenth Century Brazil.
   Walter Fraga Filho

Index

167
Acknowledgements

We wish to thank the contributors to the international conference on “Slave Systems, Ancient and Modern”, held at the Centre for the Study of Human Settlement and Historical Change, National University, Galway, on November 24th–26th, 2004. Several of the papers included in this volume were presented in an early form, while others were added later.

In particular, we wish to thank the Director of the Centre for the Study of Human Settlement and Historical Change, Nicholas Canny, and the Centre’s Secretary, Marta Shaughnessy, for their help and availability. Also, the conference would not have been possible without the financial help of the President’s Office at the National University of Ireland and of the university’s History Department; we wish to thank wholeheartedly both the former President, Ignoid O’ Muircheartaigh and Professor Stephen Ellis, Head of the History Department. Finally, we wish to thank those who contributed in different ways, offering their enthusiastic help at difficult junctures in the enterprise of organizing the conference, and especially Professor Gearoid O’Tuathaigh and Sonia Guilhe. We own also many thanks to Mary Ann Mahony who kindly translated Walter Fraga Filho’s article in English.

In addition, this volume would not have seen the light without the crucial help of our publisher or the helpful comments of the anonymous reader.
The Authors

Enrico Da lLago is Lecturer in American History in the History Department of the National University of Ireland, Galway. He is the author of Agrarian Elites (Baton Rouge, LA 2005). He also co-edited the books Slave Systems: Ancient and Modern (Cambridge 2008), Slavery and Emancipation (Oxford 2002) and The American South and the Italian Mezzogiorno: Essays in Comparative History (Basingstoke/ New York 2001).

Nick Fisher is Professor of Ancient History in the Cardiff School of History and Archaeology, Cardiff University. He has written books on Hybris (Warminster 1992), Slavery in Classical Greece (London 1993), and a translation and commentary on Aeschines: Against Timarchos (Oxford 2001), as well as many articles on the political and social history of Athens and Sparta. His current project brings together the study of the Greek concepts of charis and the Charites and the advancement of social cohesion through festival participation in classical Greece.

Walter Fraga Filho is Adjunct Professor of Brazilian History at the State University of Bahia. He is the author of Encruzilhadas da liberdade: Histórias de Escravos e Libertos na Bahia, 1870–1910 (São Paulo 2006). He studied extensively post-emancipation in Bahia, Brazil.

Constantina Katsari is Lecturer in Ancient History at the School of Ancient History and Archaeology at the University of Leicester. She co-edited two books, Slave Systems: Ancient and Modern (Cambridge 2008) and Patterns in the Economy of Roman Asia Minor (Swansea 2005), while she published several articles on both slavery and the ancient economy. She is currently preparing her forthcoming monograph on the Roman Monetary System.
The Authors

Mary Ann Mahony is Associate Professor of History at Central Connecticut State University. She is the author of several articles on Brazilian history and is working on a book entitled "Color, Class and Conflict in a Brazilian Agricultural Region" (2007–2008).

Giovanni Salmeri is Professor of Latin Epigraphy at the University of Pisa. His many publications concentrate on the history of the Greek world under the Roman Empire and the history of classical scholarship. Since 2000 he is director of the Cilicia Survey Project.

Rebecca M. Seaman is Associate Professor in History in Elizabeth City State University. She is an expert of the enslavement of Indians in Colonial America.

Theresa Urbainczyk is Senior Lecturer in the School of Classics, University College Dublin. Her main interest is in the way people write history, both now and in antiquity. Her first two books were on the struggle between church and state for the history of the early Christians (Socrates of Constantinople, University of Michigan Press 1997 and Theodoret of Cyrhus, University of Michigan Press 2002) and more recently she has turned her attention to the way another group of rebels have been written about, those involved in slave revolts in antiquity (Spartacus, Duckworth 2004 and Slave Revolts in Antiquity, Acumen 2008).